LABOR CLARION

The Official Journal of the San Francisco Labor Council

VOL. XXIX

SAN FRANCISCO, FRIDAY, JULY 4, 1930

No. 22

SCHEMERS FRUSTRATED

The so-called "universal draft" resolution, which began its career as a scheme to permit the conscripting of labor for industrial as well as military purposes in time of war, or an "emergency," to be determined by the President, was passed last week so thoroughly denatured that its parents would find it difficult to recognize it.

Nothing was left of it except provision for the appointment of a commission to study the best way to minimize profits and equalize burdens in time of war. The commission will consist of four Senators, four Representatives, the Secretaries of War, Commerce, Agriculture and Labor, and the Attorney General.

The proposal first came before the country in the form of a bill fathered by Congressman Royal C. Johnson of South Dakota, and it was widely heralded as an effort to "take the profit out of war," and to "draft the dollar as well as the man."

Organized labor naturally favored legislation which would stop profiteering, but its leaders were suspicious of the Johnson scheme from the first, believing that the real purpose was to conscript labor in time of war, while permitting capital to proceed as it had in the World War, when 23,000 new millionaires were created.

This view was confirmed when at hearings by the House Military Affairs Committee, the then national commander of the American Legion, who was pushing the legislation in the name of the Legion, admitted that under the Constitution as it stands today "you cannot draft capital."

That admission disposed of the Johnson bill, although certain leaders of the Legion continued to talk about "conscripting the dollar" without amending the Constitution.

A little later the "universal draft" bobbed up in the form of a resolution by Wainwright of New York, calling for the appointment of a commission to conduct a "study" along the line suggested in the Johnson bill. The "Old Guard" leaders prepared to rush it through the House.

Congressman Huddleston of Alabama spoiled the plan when he offered an amendment which provided that the commission should not consider or report upon the conscription of labor.

Snell of New York, who was pushing the resolution, immediately objected, saying that this would "cut the heart out of the whole plan."

This was taken as a plain admission that the resolution was expected to clear the way for drafting labor for industrial purposes, and the House, after a warm debate, adopted the Huddleston amendment.

Organized labor felt that the Huddleston amendment took most of the poison out of the resolution, but the Senate decided it needed more safeguarding. So the clause which would permit the President "to mobilize the resources of the country" in an emergency was cut out. This was done on the theory that Congress has the exclusive right to declare war and should keep a tight grip on its jurisdiction.

Congressman Patman of Texas, an ex-service man, has introduced a resolution amending the Constitution so that capital may be drafted on the same terms as man-power.

It is significant that the sponsors of the Johnson bill and the Wainwright resolution have never given Patman the slightest encouragement.

PROTEST USE OF TERRA COTTA.

San Francisco, Calif., June 24, 1930.

The Honorable Board of Trustees,
San Francisco War Memorial.
Gentlemen:

The San Francisco Labor Council takes great interest in the undertaking to erect a suitable War Memorial, worthy of the loyalty and patriotism of our citizenship, and designed to serve with entire satisfaction to all the people the high purposes for which it is to be used by this and future generations.

We have noted with some regret that the former Board and its architectural advisers did not, in our judgment, keep in mind several of the considerations that must be observed to fully realize the aforesaid high aims and purposes to be served in this undertaking.

Permit us to point out that the opposition to the plans of the previous Board arose from the fact that it failed to take into account the wishes of the citizenship of San Francisco, which favors a War Memorial suitable to stand in company with present buildings, and not presenting, to laymen and lovers of art alike, the incongruity of aspect that would result from failure to give the War Memorial buildings the same exterior finish as other buildings.

One of the foremost matters to be considered in the planning of such a structure is the exterior finish that gives the monumental character and aspect to such buildings. We think every sound planner would, without hesitation, adopt the view that our Civic Center demands uniform treatment in regard to exterior finish, and that as granite or equally monumental material of local manufacture has been provided for all previous buildings erected in the Civic Center, it would be a grievous architectural fault to adopt terra cotta finish as proposed by the former Board.

Probably the most popular form the opposition has assumed is the now practically universal economic sentiment in this community expressed in the slogan: "Keep payrolls in San Francisco." The circumstance that terra cotta manufacturers have their plants away from the city, pay lowest wages, and do not contribute to the prosperity of the community, should be sufficient argument to impress any public board expending the funds of the city with the necessity of heeding public policy in regard to the expenditure of public moneys.

To set all doubts at rest, as to the intention of the present Board, we would respectfully and earnestly request that you at once announce your decision in this matter.

Respectfully,

SAN FRANCISCO LABOR COUNCIL.

By Roe H. Baker, President.

John A. O'Connell, Secy.

NO IMPROVEMENT.

Unemployment is no better in June, according to reports received by William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor. In a statement today he said:

"Unemployment in the first six months this year has meant a loss to the country equivalent to wiping away the entire product of manufacturing industry in the United States for one week and every building constructed in two months in the 36 eastern states. We estimate that wage earners in the United States have lost over $2,000,000,000 in wages through unemployment in the first six months of this year. The country has lost much more than this amount, for these men and women have created far more than $2,000,000,000 worth of wealth if they had been employed.

"The Federation preliminary estimate of the total number unemployed in May is 3,600,000. This figure does not include office workers or farm laborers. The preliminary figure shows a gain of only 3 per cent since February when 3,700,000 were out of work. The loss in wage earner purchasing power has been of major importance in prolonging business depression.

"The hoped for improvement in unemployment did not materialize in June. Reports from trade unions in 24 cities show unemployment just as high as in May, with 20 per cent of the union membership still out of work. This figure shows just as many unemployed as in January (20 per cent), though there has been a slight improvement since the February peak when 22 per cent were unemployed. Usually over one-third (39 per cent) of those out of work in January are back at their jobs by June. More than twice as many are out of work this year as in June last year, the increase being 122 per cent.

"Our June figures show a very serious unemployment situation. Nevertheless, the fact that June shows no improvement over May is not cause for discouragement as to the future. Layoffs always come with the beginning of the summer dull season in June. With the usual fall pickup in business, employment will improve in the late summer and autumn. But meanwhile the summer months will bring hardships to hundreds of thousands of workers who have already been out of work from three to six months. And the low level of workers' purchasing power will continue to delay business recovery. The six months' unemployment has already meant arrears of debt and many failures among grocers and merchants who depend on wage earners' accounts and those who have sold on installment.

"In building trades there was a slight decrease in unemployment which indicates that the situation is improving a little. But as tenths of per cents do not show in our figures, this does not appear in the table below. Nearly twice as many are still out of work as in June last year. In metal and printing trades, the number out of work is increasing; the summer dull season seems to have begun earlier than usual. More than twice as many are out of work in printing as in June last year, and over four times as many in metal trades. The figures follow:

Per Cent of Union Members Unemployed	June
	1930*	May 1930	June 1929
All Trades .....	20	20	9
Building .....	37	37	19
Metal .....	21	19	5
Printing .....	7	6	3
All Others .....	13	13	—

*Preliminary.

In two trade groups where the employment situation had been improving in May, the tide has turned and unemployment is now on the increase again: Food industries and water transport trades. In service industries the May improvement has been checked and June showed no further gain; in street transport, trucking and delivery trades, and street railways, unemployment began to increase in June. In clothing trades, unemployment has increased 12 per cent with the beginning of the summer dull season. Eight per cent more are out of work in professional groups. Only two trade groups showed improvement. Other manufacturing industries and amusements.

Reports for individual cities show that unemployment increased in 11 cities in June, as compared to three in May, and only six cities showed an improvement.

EAGLES TAKE STAND.*From the Grand Secretary's 1930 Report on Unemployment.

This is the most important question before us. No other question so vitally affects the family units of our entire land. Employment is what our people depend on for the "necessaries" of their existence and likewise any "luxuries" that can be had in addition.

We are now in the "machine age" and can but expect increased production, with less man power, in the future. Neither the present production nor the increased production can be consumed unless the American working man and working woman have employment that they may increase consumption of such production.

The law of supply and demand will always be with us. Increased consumption can come only by steady and profitable employment for our workers. This, then, is vital to both producers and consumer. That it can be solved—that it must be solved—if we are to have a real American standard of living, is not to be denied and our order will lead the way in doing it, if we can have the increased man-power in our Aeries we are asking for.

It is a crime against our weak family units depending entirely on employment for their very existence, to sit idly by, or to say that our government and the employers should do it. This order now should have and can have two million members, and with this man-power in mass activity back of our leaders will quickly sell the proper plans to both government and employer. It will otherwise come but slowly, if at all.

We have had millions of tons of "wind-jamming" and effort, pro and con, on our rights and liberties "in booze and no booze" and not one constructive pound as to our rights and liberty to have steady employment, that beef steak and potatoes and other necessities may go into the homes of our workers. Let us lay aside all lesser rights and liberties and centralize, with increased man-power, on the rights and liberties of our people to have opportunity for employment, that the men, women and children of our country may be decently fed and clothed. Then, and not until then, should a really great people longer countenance the idle cackle about lesser rights and liberties while our women and children cry for bread because of lack of employment of the bread winner upon whom they must depend.

The right of men and women to work must be established in the minds of all. Each and every Aerie of this order should furnish its quota of increased man-power to establish it. Let's redouble our efforts for the man-power to put it over.

Edited by the President of San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21. Members are requested to forward news items to Rm. 604, 16 First Street, San Francisco.

President C. M. Baker, who has been in the southern part of the State on I. T. U. business as representative of President Howard, was expected back at local headquarters Thursday.

George S. Hollis, former president of No. 21 and at present serving as a member of the newspaper arbitration board, was the victim of a serious accident on Saturday last while returning to his home from headquarters. While crossing the street at Twentieth and Guerrero he was run down by an automobile and dragged for a distance of thirty feet or more, sustaining several fractured ribs, severe contusions on the legs and a nasty scalp wound. The driver of the automobile was arrested and charged with reckless driving, to which may be added a more serious charge. Mr. Hollis was taken to the Mission Emergency Hospital and later to his home. It is not yet known how serious his injuries are, but as soon as he is able to be moved X-ray photographs will be taken. In the meantime the patient is doing as well as might be expected, although suffering considerably. Headquarters has been busy answering anxious queries as to his condition, and his multitudes of friends will be glad to hear that his injuries, while serious, are not necessarily alarming.

Another member of No. 21 who was the victim of an accident during the last week was M. J. McDonnell, veteran member of the Examiner chapel. While driving with his wife and daughter in the Ingleside district last Sunday he was injured in a collision with another machine, sustaining two fractured ribs and a broken thumb. Fortunately his wife and daughter escaped with slight injuries. Mr. McDonnell is said to be progressing favorably toward recovery.

The decision of the arbitration board in the matter of the newspaper scale has not yet been handed down, nor has any intimation been given as to when it may be expected. Sanguine ones are predicting that the decision will be reached soon after the holiday.

Fourth of July coming on Friday this year will enable many of the members employed in the commercial shops to enjoy an extended week-end. Fishing trips, picnics and excursions are a prominent topic of conversation.

Congress, which is supposed to be struggling with the present unemployment situation, might well give heed to the words of wisdom of that great printer-philosopher of other days, Horace Greeley. Discussing the hard times in New York in the winter of 1837-38, he said: "I believe that they babble idly and libel Providence who talk of surplus labor, or the inadequacy of capital to supply employment to all who need it. Labor is often most required and best paid where capital is scarcest (as was shown in California in 1849-50); and there is always—even in China—far more work than hands, providing the ability to devise and direct be not wanting. Where labor stands idle, save in the presence of some great calamity, there is demonstrated deficiency, not of capital, but of brains."

A recent issue of the Santa Barbara press prints an interesting sketch of the life of Mrs. Julia E. Fisk of Summerland, who celebrated her 89th birthday on June 28th. Mrs. Fisk is the mother of Carrol Fisk of Santa Barbara, formerly of this city, where he is well known in printing circles. According to the newspaper article, Mrs. Fisk is not much perturbed with regard to the destiny of the present generation. She says: "The young people today are fundamentally as good as they were eighty years ago." Mrs. Fisk is the second cousin of Abraham Lincoln, and she can remember seeing and talking to the martyred President when she was a child. Another interesting fact recorded is that Mrs. Fisk is a cousin also of Wendell Phillips, famous character of Civil War times.

The following from the Santa Barbara Union Labor News of June 27th will be of interest to a large number of San Francisco printers, who will wish Mr. Fisk success in his new venture:

"Carrol E. Fisk, an old-time union printer, who still carries his union card and who formerly resided at Summerland and later at Santa Barbara, has returned to Santa Barbara after 24 years' absence and plans to make this city his home and take part in the development of the community. He has bought a half interest in the real estate

When young people play hard . . . hot water—instantly, is a blessing!

Saves 4 to 6 hours each week

Happy days for the young people mean additional cares for mothers.

But plenty of hot water at the turn of the faucet washes away the trouble. Throughout the year, too, it saves your time—by giving you hot water without delay, by quickly dissolving dirt and grease, by making it easy to keep things sweet and fragrant.

When men stop at fine hotels they like the hot water at a turn of the faucet—for bathing and shaving. It's this same service that is brought to your home by Automatic Gas Water Heater. Because of its insulated tank and efficiency, the cost is less per gallon to heat water with an Automatic Gas Water Heater than with the old-fashioned methods of waiting for water to heat.

And once you install the excellent service, there's never any bother about having an abundant supply of hot water—day and night.

Come into our office or a dealer's store and see the modern heaters. Or just telephone and our representative will call.

firm of Krebaum & Krebaum, which hereafter will be known under the firm name of Krebaum & Fisk. Mr. Fisk grew up in Summerland and Santa Barbara. His mother, Mrs. Fisk, is one of the oldest and most respected settlers of Summerland and is widely known throughout this section. Though spending 24 years in business in San Francisco, Mr. Fisk had long looked forward, he says, to his return here and had made real estate investments here in anticipation and believing in the growth of the community."

News Chapel Notes—By L. L. Heagney.

Over a period of years undoubtedly an insurance company will come out ahead. A short stretch of time, however, may be different. Without access to its records, we'll hazard a guess that the concern which group insured News employees through G. H. Davie, proofreader, hasn't paid stockholders any fat dividends from premiums collected here. From January 1st to May 31st, according to Editor W. N. Burkhardt's figures, Mr. Davie's concern paid as follows:

Case A (death) $3000.00	Case I.....$ 115.71

While on the subject, it may be of interest to note that the News Mutual Aid Society, with a membership of 63, confined to the mechanical departments, paid a total of $794 in sick benefits from February 13th to June 7th.

A three months' vacation ended last week for Bill Leslie. Mr. Leslie included in his itinerary such cities as Havana, New York, Montreal and other large and near large burghs, as well as numerous concoctions once held in high esteem before an amendment was tacked on to Uncle Sam's constitution.

Where not concealed by clothing you could see Copycutter Eddie Porter's hide peel off in long ribbon-like strips from sunburn; wrinkles took on the aspect of volcanos and once smooth places between resembled rosy lava beds. Professional kidders got a "rise" out of him by claiming to disbelieve it sunburn.

A source of much speculation is why subs should take summer vacations when evidence indicates they have them both summer and winter. Jack Bengston, slipped up on the hand side, scarcely had got back in town when Ed Braun, also on the hand side, decided he needed one. . . . Nearly as much cogitation on this subject ended in mental turmoil when Skipper Davy also took a week's vacation. They do say that Mr. Davy, feeling a need for exercise, spent the time fishing. . . . If a vacation consists of rest, then Bert Coleman probably will label his otherwise, as he plans to scale the craggy summit of Lookout Point in Yosemite and perform sundry other Alpine feats at Hetch Hetchy. . . . If Harry Harvey was out necking, he musta got hold of a good strong gal, 'cause his neck was lopsided all week. Medical men pish-tushed it off by explaining it as merely a kink that would soon go away.

MAILER NOTES.

By Leroy C. Smith.

In the transition from one dictatorship to another—for such a period is upon the M. T. D. U.—doubtless the question recurs how to attract and hold such attention of members as may preserve the M. T. D. U. from any further weakening, for unless confidence can be restored no policy of reform will be of avail. "First catch the hare" was the first essential to success of the old recipe for its cooking. So if the members are to be "kept in line," they must be caught and held. Recent audits of the finances of the M. T. D. U. tell the whole story. The statesmen of the M. T. D. U. have lived luxuriously on "easy money." They have feasted and entertained one another in grand style, with nothing having been accomplished by them for the working mailer. During all this time the reckless mismanagement of the funds of the M. T. D. U. must have been known to the president-elect and incoming officers of the M. T. D. U. Did they lift their voices in protest? So far as we have learned, they did not until the treasury was about depleted and the jurisdictional squabble in New York which led to the break between Smith and McArdle.

Organizations of every form, especially the M. T. D. U., are being challenged all along the line of promises and performances. Every institution must concern itself with the things that give value. Consequently, what value can there be attached to membership in the M. T. D. U. when the business agent of the largest mailers' local in the country turns down the officers of the M. T. D. U. and appeals to the president of the I. T. U. for aid in the settlement of his fight to secure jurisdiction over mailers' work guaranteed to them by the preamble of the M. T. D. U. In our opinion, McArdle, by this move on his part, proves the contention of the non-affiliated members in their claim that the M. T. D. U. serves no useful purpose. Why the mailer injunction, seeking to prevent the I. T. U. from legislating for what an overwhelming majority of its members consider to be for the best interests of both printer and mailer members, if not for the purpose of paying bankers' salaries to, and "other expenses" of, job-holding officials of the M. T. D. U.?

The last audit of M. T. D. U. finances show the treasury to be about depleted. The question arises, where is the money going to come from to pay salaries and "other expenses" of the incoming officers of the M. T. D. U., if not from the earnings of the members through some form of a special tax levy? Quite apparent the incoming officers of the M. T. D. U. are in a predicament similar to that of the small boy with a kite and no string to fly it. On the surface, apparently, "all is quiet on the eastern front" of the M. T. D. U. But there are enough "leaks" from various locals showing that both factions of the M. T. D. U. are not alone in a rut, but beset with strife and heart-burnings over the election. It is utterly useless to say harmony can prevail in an organization that has to resort to the Federal courts to keep it alive.

Chas. A. Pirie, foreman of Chronicle mailing room, an enthusiastic follower of rod and reel and the finny tribe, made a big haul at Baker's Beach last week, landing five rock cod weighing 22, 15, 10 and two 8-pounders. The members of the chapel divided up the 22 and 15-pounders, which they were unanimous in pronouncing the finest ever. With thanks to Charley for the fine dish of fish, we wish him further success in angling for the wily cod. . . . Gene Pritchard, the Chronicle's jovial and popular apprentice, fell a victim to the wiles of Dan Cupid, being joined in wedlock some three weeks ago to Miss Rose Duffy of this city. We extend congratulations. . . . Frank C. Lee of Chronicle chapel is confined to St. Joseph's Hospital with an ailment of the kidneys and is reported as improving. . . . Herman ("Hi") Levy of La Voce Del Popolo chapel died July 1st at his home, 36 Ostego avenue, after a long illness. "Hi," as he was familiarly known, enjoyed a wide acquaintanceship among members of the printing trades. He was a charter member of No. 18 and was 59 years of age. Funeral services were held on Thursday, July 3rd, from parlors at 643 Valencia street. Interment, Mount Olivet Cemetery. He is survived by his widow, two sons and a married daughter.

FRIDAY, JULY 4, 1930

Generally Congress is disposed to be generous in its treatment of Uncle Sam's workers, but occasionally it is unbelievably "cheap." For example: When Congress passed the Welch act two years ago it believed it was granting salary increases to all Federal employees. The Comptroller General, however, interpreted the language in such a way as to deprive about 40,000 or 45,000 of the lower-paid employees of the full benefit of the legislation. Brookhart of Iowa sought to remedy the injustice. The Senate passed the bill which he presented and made the increase retroactive to July 1, 1928, the date when the other employees got their raises. After long delays the House has just approved the Brookhart bill, but has deleted the retroactive provision. This will "save" Uncle Sam between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000, but will, of course, take just that amount out of the pockets of poor people who find it extremely difficult to make both ends meet. As the legislation now stands, the employees affected will get increases of $60 or $100, or a total of about $2,875,000 a year.

In opposing the injunction relief bill, pending in the Senate, the majority of the Senate Judiciary Committee says: "The doctrine of equality before the law and equal protection of the laws ought not to be departed from to the injury of any portion of the people of the Republic." That is the argument of trade unionists in their fight against injunctions. How can these Senators talk of "equality before the law" when they favor injunctions to enforce law? There is no equality in an injunction court. The purpose of labor injunctions is to destroy that equality. An injunction judge does not recognize the Constitution. He issues any order he elects and then punishes for contempt if such order is violated. He is "law" maker, judge and executioner. He has classed good will and patronage as "property" and fines or jails any one who interferes with such "property"—even though the person is doing a lawful act, such as strikers appealing for public opinion. Free speech, free press, the right of public assemblage and opposition to involuntary servitude are constitutional provisions that the equity judge sets aside. These can not be ignored in a law court. That is why employers favor injunction courts. It is ridiculous to favor equity (injunctions) and at the same time talk of equality before the law. These are contradictions. Government by law is the American theory. One-man government is Fascism.

TOO MANY VICTIMS

The toll of human life exacted by motor cars in this country is increasing yearly. In 1929 the number totalled 31,680, and during the last ten years the number of deaths attributed to automobile accidents reached nearly 200,000.

It has become so common to see in the daily papers accounts of persons killed and maimed in wrecks that one seldom stops to read the details. It is only when a member of the family or a close friend is involved that the seriousness of the situation is brought home. Then the fact that a life has been extinguished, a person disfigured or made a permanent cripple because of someone's negligence, seems horrible. It is then that one asks, "Who will be next? What is to be done to decrease the large number of automobile wreck fatalities?"

In an address over the radio on June 15th, a synopsis of suggestions made at the recent meeting in Washington of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety was given by an official of the Department of Commerce. It was pointed out that a serious congestion of traffic prevails on the streets and highways, and the speaker emphasized the need of a clear view, for at least 500 feet, of approaching vehicles. It was thought that this could be attained, at least in part, by the control of advertising signs, by removing view-obstructing trees, shrubs and sloping banks, and by cutting down sharp hill crests.

Grade crossings (and to these may be attributed a large percentage of the deaths) were seriously considered and the desire on the part of many drivers to "beat the train," their carelessness in approaching the crossings, and their gross negligence in failing to exercise due caution were deplored.

Another phase of the situation dealt with was that of requiring licenses of drivers, and it was pointed out that only twelve states require an examination before issuing drivers' licenses. Of the others, twelve have no requirements "and anybody at all is free to operate a vehicle which, in incompetent hands, can so easily maim or kill."

It was further urged that plans be made for some means whereby worn out and mechanically defective cars could be eliminated from the highways. Some manufacturers have adopted methods of buying in and scrapping used cars. This is beneficial both in increasing the demand for new cars and decreasing the number of accidents.

There is, no doubt, a need for stricter and more uniform traffic regulations throughout the states, as in these days of so much interstate automobile travel the motorist should be able to proceed from one state to another with a knowledge of the regulations under which he travels. But, regardless of regulations, into the problem enters the human element. No matter how perfect the rules or how strictly enforced, if the driver is negligent there is the probability of an accident, costing his life or that of another.

It is only when every driver is made to realize and remains constantly aware of the danger, not only to himself but to others, resulting from careless driving and disregard of rules that the alarming number of automobile fatalities will be materially reduced. Punishment for those who drive cars carelessly and without regard for the danger to human life can hardly be made too severe.

THE CHERRY TREE

Where with our Little Hatchet we tell the truth about many things, sometimes profoundly, sometimes flippantly, sometimes recklessly.

Great excitement prevailed in the newspapers of Chicago for a few days after gangdom put a bullet through "Jake" Lingle, police reporter for the Chicago Tribune. All Chicago newspaperdom started out to turn the town upside down in a war to end racketeering and gangsterism. Rewards were offered and high police officers resigned to give successors a clear field to fame. Now it is axiomatic in newspaper offices that a sensation can be played at top value only for a very short time. No sensation can be kept feverishly on page one more than two or three days unless something new, definite and sensational happens as a "follow up." Mere mystery, or lack of definite happenings, is not enough to hold a "place in the sun," nor in the Chicago Tribune or Daily News, to say nothing of the Hearst papers. So the sensation, naturally and inevitably, began to dwindle because it couldn't be kept hot on resignations and the offer of rewards. Today it is all stale news.

But something insinuates itself into the picture of Chicago gansterism. How come thuggery to Chicago on its first grand scale? It came when Hearst invaded Chicago and the Chicago Tribune sought to keep him out. The great circulation war between Hearst and the McCormick paper brought Chicago its first paid-for violence on a grand scale. And now, years later, the Chicago Tribune seeks the murderer of a police reporter and the Examiner joins in the hunt. Perhaps we do not find chickens come home to roost, but we do find practices perpetuated true to type. Prohibition has entered to give employment to the same type of degraded humanity that thrived in that earlier circulation war when speeding wagons bore papers and gunmen to see that they got to their destination.

* * *

Turning from gunmen to doctors, we find an interesting warning. Homeopaths, meeting in national assembly, are told that the rush to carve out infants' tonsils and adenoids is "a massacre of the innocents," which is a most awful whack at a large part of the fraternity. These medicos were told also the very sound truth that as long as the mucous membrane has no holes in it nature has thus provided the best shield against infection. And, as if that were not enough, the authority who was delivering the discourse declared that a lot of tooth and tonsil trouble comes from some of the "popular tooth pastes now on the market." Some of these, it was declared, are the worst thing to use the first thing in the morning and the last thing at night. Sanity bucks the tide because insanity pays bigger dividends and gets more publicity. Fads and fakes do get their wallops now and then, however, to the delight of a populace that is ridden to death—literally, all too often—by specialists and high pressure salesmen of orthodox practices carried to well advertised extremes.

* * *

Few more humanly interesting things than this in the day's news: Asa Keyes, as Los Angeles district attorney, prosecuted and "put away" three boys for murder and holdup. Came the time when Asa Keyes himself was "put away" in old San Quentin. There Asa Keyes found the three boys. They presented to him, as a fellow prisoner, such strong evidence of innocence that he prepared for them an appeal for clemency which has been granted. Keyes, as prosecutor, couldn't see the facts as they were later seen by Keyes the prisoner. How much of our criminal prosecution machinery is like that?

LABOR QUERIES.

Questions and Answers on Labor: What it Has Done; Where It Stands on Problems of the Day; Its Aim and Program; Who's Who in the Ranks of the Organized Toilers. Etc., Etc.

Q.—When was the carrying on of public construction work as a means of relieving unemployment first advocated?

A.—This is not known. The idea is not a new one, having been proposed in 1525 by Juan Luis Vives in a treatise on "The Relief of the Poor."

Q.—Where will the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor be during the 1930 convention in Boston?

A.—Hotel Statler.

Q.—Why was President Green of the American Federation of Labor recently awarded one of the 1930 medals of the Roosevelt Memorial Association?

A.—For his efforts in behalf of co-operation in industry. The citation of Mr. Green says: "As president of the American Federation of Labor he has both symbolized and directed the new policy of co-operation in industry, representing the American concept of industrialism and self-reliance, and fighting with success the disruptive influence of the radical element preaching communism and class war. In a period of unrest and readjustment he has prevented conflict and at the same time strengthened the position of the trade union in the social order."

The resolution was adopted and reads:

Fight for Freedom of Speech Enjoined by Owners of Royal, Alhambra and Castro Theatres.

Whereas, The owners of the Royal, Alhambra and Castro Theatres in San Francisco have commenced an action against the Musicians' Union, the Motion Picture Operators' Union, the International Association of Theatre Stage Employees, the Building Service Employees' Union, the Bill Posters and Billers' Union and the Theatrical Federation of San Francisco, whereby these owners, who have been unfair to organized labor, seek to restrain the right of freedom of speech for labor organizations and to prevent such labor organizations from properly informing the public as to the attitude of these theatre owners toward the employment of members of labor organizations and the carrying out of contracts made by such theatre owners with labor organizations, which contracts the theatre owners have failed to perform; and

Whereas, Said owners of theatres have taken advantage of the immunity afforded by legal proceedings to make libelous charges which they feared to make in an open way so as to permit the labor unions concerned to file actions of libel against them; now, therefore, be it

WHAT NEXT?

Pressures so great that they enable ice to withstand a temperature of 180 degrees and change ordinary substances into new forms of matter are described in a report to the Engineering Foundation by Dr. P. W. Bridgman, Hollis professor of mathematics and natural philosophy in Harvard University.

Even the molecules which compose gases, invisible under the most powerful microscope, and the atoms which in turn form the molecules, are driven together, Professor Bridgman says, by the force he has employed in the experiments.

Important changes in volume were produced, it was found, in substances ranging from water to metals. Under a pressure of 88 tons to the square inch, the volume of many of the metals was decreased several times more than it could be reduced by cooling to the absolute zero of temperature, or 273 degrees Centigrade below freezing of water.

The mistress of the household represents the "purchasing power." She cannot go on a strike, but she can obviate the necessity of striking by demanding the union label.

Brief Items of Interest

The following trade unionists passed away last week: Jeremiah J. Lynch of the molders, John N. Spooner of the electrical workers, Joseph Duclos of the teamsters, John J. Ward of the teamsters, William Murphy and James Hennessey of the watchmen, George G. Ilg of the waiters, Herman Levy of the mailers.

George S. Hollis, former president of the Labor Council, was seriously injured last Saturday evening while on his way home. He was crossing Dolores street, at the corner of Twentieth, when an automobile came racing along to make the grade between Twentieth and Twenty-first streets. The machine struck him, knocking him several feet, breaking three ribs, lacerating his scalp and severely injuring both legs. Doctors say he will be confined to his bed for some time as a result of the accident.

All indications are that the boycott of Modesto and Challenge butter is having the effect of convincing the management of the manufacturing establishment that it made a mistake when it picked a fight with the organized workers of this State. Keep the good work up.

Portland, Ore., street car men secured a compromise wage increase through arbitration. Platform men are advanced $5 to $8 a month and a $4 monthly increase was granted shopmen, trackmen and other employees.

A boy was killed and 250 persons injured in two days of street clashes between workers and police and civil guards following declaration of a general strike in Seville, Spain.

Declaring that September should be the starting point for renewed business activity, John G. Lonsdale, president of the American Bankers' Association, recently said that the depression storm of the last few months had about passed.

Shipments of fruits and vegetables by truck have increased so rapidly in the last few years that 80 per cent of New Jersey's produce of this character is now sent to market in this way, a recent report by the State Agricultural Experiment Station reveals.

Shops of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad are to be closed from July 1st to July 21st, affecting 5300 workers, it was announced in Baltimore June 23rd.

Socialization of medicine in the United States, with all physicians becoming employees of the state, is inevitable, unless physicians themselves establish medical centers to enable the poor and "white collar" classes to cope with the mounting cost of living, Dr. Malcolm L. Harris, retiring president of the American Medical Association told the annual convention of the organization at Detroit.

Herman "Hi" Levy, 59, La Voce Del Popolo mailer, died Tuesday at his home, 36 Ostego avenue, after a long illness. He was a member of the San Francisco Mailers' Union No. 18 and a native of San Francisco. He had worked on many San Francisco newspapers. Services were held Wednesday at 1 p. m. from parlors at 643 Valencia street.

Following a flight across the Bay with Joseph J. Tynan, Jr., Tuesday afternoon, Peter J. Brady, chairman of Mayor Walker's committee on airports and aviation and New York photo-engraver, declared himself convinced of the success of a similar service which Joseph Tynan, Sr., local steel magnate, will install at the cost of $1,000,000 from the Battery across New York Bay to Staten Island.

BY THE WAY.

Secretary of the Interior Wilbur signed last April the contracts approving the deals made for the delivery of the power from the new great Boulder Dam waterpower plant, at a rate which is said to guarantee the return to the government of all it will invest in the plant, at a rate of 1.63 mills per kilowatt hour. That is less than two-tenths of one cent per unit. Now, if it costs another two-tenths of a cent per kilowatt hour to get that juice delivered to the consumer, and if it is sold to him at 6 cents per kilowatt hour, that will make the selling price exactly 15 times the total cost.

The six hundredth and fifteenth anniversary of Magna Charta was celebrated recently in Washington and elsewhere. Orators told how King John had been shorn of his tyrannical prerogatives and declared that the signing of the "Great Charter" had dealt arbitrary power a deadly blow. Arbitrary power is still on the job, however, despite the blow given it by Magna Charta. It's wielded nowadays by the injunction judge, who makes the law, sentences violators of it and sends them to prison. The provision of Magna Charta that no freeman should be imprisoned or proceeded against except by the lawful judgment of his peers, means nothing to the injunction judge, who is judge and jury in one. America needs a Magna Charta, one that will strip the injunction judge of his arbitrary and tyrannical power, as King John was stripped of his.

Mechanically defective automobiles will be barred from Tennessee highways unless the owners have the defects corrected within 48 hours after being stopped by a patrolman, J. O. Davis, chief of the State Highway Patrol, announces. The ruling followed a recent save-a-life campaign conducted by the Highway Patrol, during which car owners were given free inspection service of their automobiles as a safety measure. Automobile men and safety experts agree that bad brakes and other mechanical defects contribute to the nation's high total of automobile accidents. If other states followed Tennessee's example and barred mechanically defective autos, American highways would undoubtedly be safer and the criminally high automobile death rate would be reduced.
